9. Character of Macbeth

Do How

Why did he go ahead with killing Duncan on his 1st? Should he believe what his own conscience told him or what the witches said? He should have thought about the consequences of his actions.

Macbeth shows us that Macbeth was a brave man because he says "every man goes against his own conscience" on 1st/19th. Shows he had a strong conscience. He shows that he respects himself and his conscience. It is not so easy to go against one's conscience. It is because Macbeth was a brave man and he only goes against his own conscience when he is in a desperate situation. He shows that he respects himself and his conscience. Character development

→ He falls from grace

Brave Macbeth... With his brandish'd steel, which smoked with bloody execution, like Valour's minion carved out his passage.

Seems hide your faces, let not light see my black and deep desires: I have done the deed. He should not be a man.

Will all great Neptune's ocean wash this blood clean from my hand? No...

Personal reflection of Macbeth (devils talked, greed, menacing)

Ignorance and want is important in Macbeth's experience because it shows him (and the reader) the true face of greed and money. Greed is violence in itself, unbridled, hidden and sneaky to suggest the wealth can be a negative influence on people. The 'I' sound, repeated links to the idea of money being dangerous and that the people with it are greedy and greedy. It shows that Macbeth thought that lots of money turn out to be stress and they'll assume that they'll have more power and they'll suffocate you into doing what they want.
